

6,000 MARINES ARE ORDERED TO NICARAGUA

Outcome of Impending
Struggle at Matagalpa
Will Decide Use of Additional Troops.

MARINES TO KEEP RAIL LINES OPEN

Admiral Latimer May Attempt to Prevent Great Battle by Declaring
Neutral Zones.

Washington, February 17.—(AP)—A force of 1,000 additional American marines is under orders for Nicaragua to put an end to bloodshed and disorder in that country.

Two hundred men aboard the cruiser Trenton are to be rushed from Guantanamo, Cuba, to Corinto. Another 200 will proceed from San Diego, Cal. A full regiment, 1,200 strong, is scheduled to sail from the United States aboard the naval transport Henderson.

Will Wait on Battle.

The outcome of an impending battle between liberal and conservative forces at Matagalpa probably will decide the exact use of the additional forces to be placed at his disposal. The Washington government does not know in detail the number of troops facing each other at Matagalpa, but disclosure today of the orders which will increase American marine detachments in Nicaragua four fold indicates the grave doubt entertained by President Coolidge and his advisers that the Matagalpa battle can be averted.

No explanation was made at the state and navy departments of the immediate reason for sending additional marines to Nicaragua. The 200 men to be sent from Guantanamo to Corinto will supplement 400 marines now insuring order at Managua, capital of the Diaz government.

They will also be available to keep open the Corinto-Managua railroad in the event that Admiral Latimer decides to employ his reinforcements for the establishment of neutral zones at Matagalpa or elsewhere in a further effort to smother the liberal attack upon the Diaz government.

Seaplanes Ordered.

Orders to the marine detachment at San Diego to embark for Nicaragua were disclosed yesterday simultaneously with the announcement that a division of six naval seaplanes had been assigned to duty at Corinto. The transport Henderson is still at Philadelphia, but was expected to sail tomorrow for Newport, R. I., to take aboard 800 Blue Jacket recruits for the fleet at Guantanamo.

Secretary Willard said today that on her way south from Newport the ship would pick up a thousand marines at Quantico, Va., and 200 more at the Parris Island, S. C., station. Whether she will proceed first to Guantanamo to transfer the blue jackets to the fleet or go directly to Nicaragua, probably via the Panama canal to Corinto, was not disclosed.

Some state department officials today expressed the opinion that these additional naval forces would be sufficient to cope with any eventuality in Nicaragua. They believe that it would not be possible for even the liberal element to the president, Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, to prevent the clash at Matagalpa, even if he were prepared to enter into peace negotiations with the Diaz faction. These officials said that the liberal military leaders have usurped whatever authority over military operations Dr. Sacasa formerly exercised.

Situation Critical.

There is no question that the Washington government regards the situation at Matagalpa as critical. The fact that the transport Henderson has been diverted from her trip to pick up bluejackets at Newport and ordered direct to Quantico to embark marines is believed, however, to indicate that the sending of additional

New Orleans, La., February 17.—(United News).—Reports from widely scattered parts of north Louisiana and central Mississippi tonight indicated that a series of tornadoes had swept those sections this afternoon.

With 16 known dead in the Sabine parish near western Texas, and unconfirmed reports placing the death toll as high as 25, reports from central Mississippi indicated that a village had been wrecked west of Hattiesburg with much loss of life.

16 REPORTED DEAD
IN LOUISIANA PARISH.

Shreveport, La., February 17.—(United News).—Sabine parish, on the Louisiana-Texas boundary, was swept by a tornado at sundown today.

Sixteen persons are known to have been killed by the twister and several more are reported to have lost their lives.

Among the dead were three women and two children.

More than a score of persons were injured and several of the more critically hurt were reported to be dying in hospitals or the homes of country physicians.

Amidst the carnage, however, physicians hastened to the scene of the tragedy from Shreveport.

Pleasant Hill, where a new oil field was being opened up, bore the brunt of the storm.

Police Court Is Attacked In Injunction

Judge Holloway Cited in Petition To Restrain
Recorder's Court.

City Recorder Murphy M. Holloway Thursday was cited to appear Monday before Judge E. E. Pomeroy, of the Fulton superior court, to show cause why an injunction should not be granted restraining the operation of the second division of the city recorder's court.

This citation was issued after proceedings had been brought by Attorney Ernest Bentley, in which he contended that the operation of the second division of the court is illegal because the ordinance creating the division sets forth that court shall be held in the division at 7 p. m., while as a matter of fact the court is now being held at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Attorney Bentley sought an order restraining operation of the court but Judge Pomeroy declined to order the court discontinued. He cited Judge Holloway to appear and show cause why the petition should not be granted. The case was brought by Attorney Bentley as representative of R. M. Wright, of Inman Park, a client.

The injunction was filed as a result of a sentence of 30 days in jail imposed on Maud Sellers, a negro, in Holloway's court last Monday. Her attorney, Ernest G. Sellers, brought habeas corpus proceedings Thursday. The petition was denied, whereupon Wright brought the injunction which is directed against Judge Holloway personally.

Katy-Did and Katy-Didn't

That age-old dispute in the insect world will never be settled, but there will never be any controversy between the Katys who did read the advertisements in The Constitution and the Katys who didn't.

Those who read the advertisements in The Constitution regularly are rewarded by securing some wonderful bargains; those who do not, hear of those bargains when it is too late to participate in their benefits.

We know we cannot compel people to read advertisements, but if we can show them that it is to their advantage to read them, we can increase the number who are regular advertisement readers.

We would not try to induce you to read advertisements in the afternoons and evenings, because that would be the "line of the most resistance," as the great majority of people reserve that time of day for their diversion, entertainment and amusement.

But we do urge you to read the advertisements that appear in The Constitution every morning. That is the period of the day when you have time to give the offerings of Atlanta's merchants serious consideration. Many thousands of Atlanta women have formed this custom—why not you?

Capture of Hangchow
Officially Confirmed

Shanghai, February 18.—(AP)—(Friday)—The capture of Hangchow, important center, 113 miles southwest of Shanghai, by the nationalists, was confirmed here today. The forces of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, who formerly held the city, were preparing centers of resistance to the north at Kashing and Sungkiang.

Shanghai, February 17.—(AP)—Twenty-one warships of five foreign countries lay in the Whangpoo river here today, their fighting men ready to go into action if needed to protect foreign lives and property should they be menaced by the threatened invasion of Cantonese forces.

Four thousand British soldiers ashore within the international settlements awaited developments; other British troops on the sea will bring their number up to 10,000, unless they are diverted to other parts of China.

Five American war vessels—the Pittsburgh, Asheville, Sacramento, Edsall and McCormick—had on board 1,100 marines ready for shore duty, and 1,200 other "devil dogs" were expected from San Diego February 24.

Five Foreign Flags.

The five foreign flags floating from the warships were those of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy. The warcraft lay at anchor, despite the assurances of the warship Chinese factions that foreign lives and property were not endangered. In Shanghai, however, were many foreign refugees from Hankow and Kiating, from which cities they had been evacuated when coolie mobs overran the British concession districts, and Cantonese government officials took over their administration.

5 MEN INDICTED IN FLOGGING CASE

Montgomery County Citizens Charged With Assault Upon F. B. Gordon
Near Uvalde.

Mount Vernon, Ga., February 17.—(AP)—Montgomery county grand jury in special session today returned true bills against Joe Henry Wolfe, Kenneth Wolfe, Emmett Johnson, John Gosby and Bruce Morris on the charge of assault and battery in connection with the whipping of F. B. Gordon near Uvalde, on the night of February 5.

The five men are indicted by the grand jury on the same charge as a true bill was found against A. W. Bendamire last week. The Bendamire case is set for tomorrow.

Joe Henry Wolfe is defendant in a case concerning a young woman related to Gordon, set for trial tomorrow and on account of which Gordon was whipped. It is alleged, after the whipping, Gordon was told not to go to court in defense of the young woman. The grand jury returned a bill against Wolfe last week.

Citizens of Montgomery county, as a whole, are looking for publicity in the termination to put down lawlessness of the character now pending in the courts for disposition.

Ex-Governor T. W. Hardwick will be present tomorrow to aid in the prosecution of the Bendamire case, and a number of the members of the Montgomery county bar have been retained for the prosecution.

Life-Termer Caught After 17 Free Years

Georgia Convict, Recaptured
In Los Angeles. To Be Brought Back.

Seventeen years of freedom and the span of a continent, S. B. Thebaud put between himself and a Georgia prison camp. Today he is back in the coils of the law.

Convicted of murder in Chatham county in 1909, Thebaud was serving a life term on the Bryan county chain-gang, when he escaped.

Police officials in every part of America were furnished with his description—but for years nothing was heard of the fugitive.

However, the machinery of the law, though deliberate, is relentless. Los Angeles police had his record on file. When a suspect came under their scrutiny, western authorities held the man, and mailed a photograph to the Georgia prison commission. Identification followed.

Requisition papers were turned over to W. H. Norris, warden of the Bryan county farm. He will leave immediately to bring Thebaud back to Georgia to resume serving the long-deferred penalty for his crime.

Spring May Have Come,
NO NEW RECORDS YET SET FOR FEBRUARY WARMTH
But Watch for March Winds

BY HERB MCUSKER.

"Spring has come!"

The fellow with the overworked nose and bandana handkerchief sprawled over the grocery-store candy counter and peered through half-closed eyes into the glare of Thursday's radiant sunlight. "She sho' hab come—"

Old Uncle Zeke, who minds well the night of the big wind, shrugged his bony shoulders, spat a generous donation of the "Grand Old Chew" in the general direction of the cracker barrel, and in a high-pitched voice chorlled: "Yuh call this a hot February, eh?"

Fortified with a fresh cud, he parked an elbow on his cane handle, crossed his knees with an effort and squinted at the ceiling. "Well, lemme tell yuh somethin'. Back in '80—let's see now, WAS it '80? Yeh? February of '80, jest a-fore Tolliver Umlaut's spotted pointer was run over by one of them y'ere city hacks—Young feller, it got so dad-blamed swelterin' during that February that the pansies on my old woman's spring hat turned plum to seed!"

Now, one cannot promiscuously question the veracity of a man who was right there and saw a thing take place. But somehow or other it was almost inconceivable that there was ever a warmer February day than was Thursday. An obliging elevator operator pointed out the office of C. F. von Hermann, meteorologist, United States weather bureau, Atlanta Trust Company building.

Mark Twain once remarked something to the effect that somebody's always kicking on the weather, but no one seems to ever do anything about it. Mark hadn't visited Mr. von Hermann's office. Had he done so, he would have discovered that that gentleman is press agent for "Old Sol" and the Judge Landis of the elements.

A ten-minute scrutiny of the climatological record in the weather bureau gleaned these pertinent facts: While Thursday's high temperature of 76 degrees wasn't what one might call frigid, it failed to establish a new

Women Congress Members GO TO GYM, SUGGESTS FLORENCE KAHN Offer Objections To Fights

BY LEE GEBHART.

Washington, February 17.—Women members of congress object to their male colleagues staging their private brawls in public places about the capital.

"I'm afraid some of the members of the house are looking for publicity," Congresswoman Florence Kahn, California republican, said. "If they want to fight it would be a good idea for them to go to the gymnasium and have it like men should."

"I don't approve of congressmen conducting themselves in such an ungentlemanly manner in the house or in the committee rooms. The publicity is terrible for those members of the house who are not pugilistically inclined. I think the whole thing is absurd."

Mrs. Kahn told the United News that it would be a good idea to make representatives who are known to have tempers sign an agreement before a session of congress opened so that they would not fight on the floor.

Mrs. Edith M. Rogers, representative from Massachusetts, declared that if any man on the floor took a swing at her during an argument she would be inclined to strike back in self-defense.

"I have been to quite a few amateur fights, but I don't think it is right for gentlemen of the house to air their grievances in public," she said. "Women fight just as much as men do, only they have more sense than to fight in public. It's about time the gentlemen of congress put a stop to such antics and learned to control their tempers."

Hearings on the two measures introduced yesterday for official supervision of boxing bouts, will be started as soon as possible, Chairman Snell of the rules committee, said today.

"Before I begin to hold the hearings I want ample protection," Snell said. "I want a man—one like General Pershing—as my bodyguard. I have no funny ideas of trusting my safety to any tin soldiers. I want regulars."

It is understood that former marines now serving in the house have agreed to "protect" the rules committee at the hearings.

Two pairs of boxing gloves were presented to Speaker Longworth, to be used at all official encounters.

Representative George A. Welsh, Pennsylvania republican, received the gloves for his personal protection from members of the Twenty-fourth Ward Republican club, of Philadelphia, of which he is president. He at once presented them to Speaker Longworth.

The gloves were shown to Mrs. Florence Kahn, representative from California. She tried them on and declared she thought they would be adequate protection.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Los Angeles, Calif., February 17.—Being married and the mother of two children is all right. Being a much-sought-after authoress, also, is all right, but, according to Mrs. Adela Rogers St. John, who announced her intention to seek a divorce today: "I have for a long time felt that for a woman as busy as I with my books and short stories, it is impossible to be a working woman, a mother, and a wife, all at the same time. So I have and I have parted in the best of good feeling. When we separated more than two months ago he asked me to announce when I felt like it. The time has now come."

"I am beginning a new book at once and am going to be busy. I will get around to the legal side of my case when I can, but I will tell the world that there will be no scandal about it. I am living on my own at Whittier with my boy and girl. My husband has moved to a Hollywood hotel."

Lita Chaplin Loses Battle For Alimony

Attorneys Fail in Effort To Obtain Temporary Relief.

Los Angeles, February 17.—(AP)—Lita Grey Chaplin today lost through a decision of the district court of appeals her award of temporary alimony which her attorneys for several weeks have tried vainly to collect from her husband, Charlie Chaplin.

The court made permanent a writ of prohibition restraining the receivers in charge of the comedian's California fortune from making alimony payments which had been ordered by the superior court.

The superior court had given Mrs. Chaplin not only $4,000 a month but also ordered her to pay retroactive to cover the period since she left the Chaplin home last November, and granted her attorney fees and costs in her divorce suit. Reduction in the cash payment to $3,000 a month was ordered by the superior court when Mrs. Chaplin and her two small sons took over the Chaplin Beverly Hills mansion, thereby saving a rent bill of $1,000 a month.

The district court of appeal held that since Chaplin, who went to New York just before the divorce suit was filed, had not been served with the complaint, the superior court was without jurisdiction in granting alimony to Mrs. Chaplin.

YOUTH CONFESSES THAT HE KILLED HIS STEPMOTHER

Poplar Bluff, Mo., February 17.—(AP)—Earl Jackson, 15, confessed late today to Prosecuting Attorney Byron Kearby that he killed his stepmother, Mrs. Mary Jackson, last October 7 and buried the body in a shallow grave, where it was found Tuesday night by a dog.

"She just wanted to be killed and I killed her," Prosecutor Kearby quoted the youth as having said.

The youth was said by Kearby to have told how Mrs. Jackson and her stepson went hunting. The woman, according to Jackson's confession, stopped in a cotton field and pleaded with him to kill her, saying she was "tired of living with my father and wanted to die."

The prosecutor said the boy admitted he agreed to carry out her request. He said he hit her several times with an axe.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, February 17.—(United News).—Riding over all opposition with a steamroller that would have done credit to Czar Cannon, the house farm bloc tonight forced passage of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

It passed the senate in identical form last week and is now ready to go to the president. A veto is expected at the white house.

The vote was 214 to 178.

Amendments Beaten.

The final vote came in the house after more than a hundred amendments had been beaten by the farm bloc. The forces behind the bill held together without a single crack during the heaviest barrage of hostile amendments seen in many years.

This action closes the long battle over farm relief in congress. It is the climax of three years of effort to get such a measure through. The McNary-Haugen bill just passed is the third of that name which has been in congress since 1924. The other two were defeated. Each time conciliatory changes were made to gain additional support.

The bill carries a revolving fund of $250,000,000 to be used to finance the disposition of surplus basic crops so that they may be kept off the domestic market and prices held up.

Exhaust Devices.

Opponents of the bill exhausted every parliamentary device to defeat the bill but were unable to make the slightest dent in the grimly determined farm bloc. An attempt to adjourn at dinner time carried on a rising vote but when the farm bloc forced a roll-call, the opposition ran to cover and could not muster a majority for adjournment. The house then settled down to an evening's grind and the farm leaders drove their plow through layers of enemy amendments until not one was left.

More than a dozen members on the floor were in evening dress. All members of the farm bloc, however, kept on their working clothes and looked a trifle scornfully at their more elegantly dressed enemies from prosperous industrial sections. The dress-suit brigade had attended the white house reception earlier in the evening and returned to the house in time to vote on the final roll call. Galleries were packed.

Washington, February 17.—Negotiations between the United States and Turkey are reported to be under way for the signing of a new agreement providing for renewal of normal diplomatic relations and extension of the modus vivendi, expiring February 20.
Resumption of relations with Turkey is the result of negotiations at Ankara carried on last month by Admiral Mark L. Bristol, American high commissioner.

M'NARY-HAUGEN MEASURE PASSES

Dramatics Lacking.
However, the closing of the epochal battle came without any dramatics. There were no passionate speeches and the house, tired and exhausted after a long day, went through the parliamentary grind with grim seriousness. When the victory for the farm bill, formally was announced, members of the farm bloc leaped on their chairs and cheered. Then they surged around the speaker, while-haired leader, Gilbert N. Haugen, of Iowa, and showered him with congratulations.

MEASURE IS PASSED
BY MARGIN OF 36.
Washington, February 17.—(AP)—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was passed tonight by the house in exactly the form approved by the senate. The vote was 214 to 178, a margin of 36 votes.
The bill proposes creation of a federal farm board with power to levy an equalization fee on six basic agricultural commodities for the purpose of controlling surpluses.
By passing the measure, the house in less than 12 months reversed its position, having by a vote of 212 to 167 last spring rejected a bill embodying the same general provisions. Two years ago it also voted down a bill by the same name with similar provisions.
The senate, by passing the bill, 47 to 39, last week also reversed its position, having rejected the equalization fee plan last year.
Inclusion of tobacco and rice and the elimination of cattle as basic farm commodities was credited generally for the increase in strength mustered by the bill. The basis of the measure as it goes to the president are swine, wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and rice.
Keep Machinery Operating.
The house took up the bill today with little expectation of a final vote before tomorrow. By holding a majority on the floor at all times, however, the McNary-Haugen supporters kept legislative machinery proceeding at a rapid pace, and rejected one after another the more than 100 amendments offered by opponents.
Just before the bill came up for final passage, tonight, after nine hours continuous session, Representative Aswell, democrat, Louisiana, offered his relief proposal as a substitute, but it was shelved on a roll call vote, 214 to 175.
At the outset of today's session his bill had been rejected, 160 to 144, and then the Curtis-Crisp farm measure was turned down, 177 to 156. Without record votes two other substitutes were defeated, one a farm debenture plan sponsored by Representative Jones, democrat, Texas; the other, offered by Representative Hill, republican, Maryland, was the Curtis-Aswell national commodity measure rejected last year.
Haugen Presses Bill.
Disposing of these attempted substitutes, Chairman Haugen, of the agriculture committee, moved his bill toward a vote. No dinner recess was taken, although Representative Tilson, the republican leader, proposed adjournment. His motion was defeated, 198 to 170, and reading of the bill for amendments continued into the night.
The measure, framed jointly by Chairman Haugen, of the house committee, and Chairman McNary, of the senate agriculture committee, is designed to promote orderly marketing of basic crops by the control and disposition of surpluses.

It would set up a federal farm board of 12 members, to be selected by the president from a list of 36 names supplied by farm organizations. Whenever it appeared a surplus existed in any of the basic crops, the board might declare an "operating period," in a crop until its surplus had disappeared and feed the surplus into world markets.
The measure provides for a $200,000 revolving fund for the board's operation. Any loss sustained in the board's activities would be assessed against the producers through imposition of an equalization fee.
The board also would be empowered to make loans to cooperatives with a view to strengthening them to supplement the work of the board.

SOVIETISM SEEN IN FARM AID BILL.
Macon, Ga., February 17.—(AP)—The midwinter conference of the Georgia Commercial Secretaries' association opened here today and will continue through tomorrow. Upward to a hundred delegates from all sections of the state are attending. The meeting is being presided over by W. H. Foster, Rome, president of the association.
Colin Harbottle, of Toronto, Canada, spoke at length this morning on farm settlement in Georgia, in which he said that one of Georgia's problems was to convince the penniless Georgian lands will produce all kinds of fine crops.
He suggested that the secretaries make some move toward getting the immigration laws amended so that British farmers could come here in larger numbers.
Another speaker this morning was C. O. Carpenter, Macon banker, on the relation of the retailer to the wholesaler of commerce. T. H. Halliburton, president of the Macon Chamber of Commerce welcomed the visitors here.

heightened by reports that the troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, ruler of Kiangsu province, in which Shanghai is located, had suffered defeat in Sun's province of Chekiang and were fleeing back toward Shanghai. The Cantonese were said to have occupied Hangchow, 113 miles from this city by rail, after severe fighting.

Forces Demoralized.
Sun forces were described as demoralized and seizing all available railway cars at Hangchow, prepared to continue their retreat toward Shanghai, if necessary.
Cantonese, reinforced from Fukien province, hampered away at the lines of Sun for three days, driving them back northward from Yenchow, where they had taken their stand along the Tangien river.
Sun's army split into three columns as it fell back toward Hangchow. In the outskirts of the city fighting took place last night. Reports, uncontrollable because of hampered telegraphic communications, reached Shanghai that Hangchow had fallen into the Cantonese hands.

BRITAIN WILL SUPPRESS RIOTING IN SHANGHAI

London, February 17.—(United News.)—Warning that the British are ready to suppress any attempts at plunder or massacre which may follow conquest of Shanghai by the Cantonese forces, was issued tonight by L. S. Amery, colonial secretary in the cabinet.
Amery, addressing a conservative mass meeting, admitted that the Cantonese army "instructed by Russians," had heavily defeated the army defending Shanghai.
In the next few days," Amery said, "doubtless a rabble of troops will be pouring into Shanghai. What is likely to happen? What a naturally might happen would be massacre and plunder on a vast scale, but it is not going to happen in this instance.
The first brigade of British troops has landed. The government just in time has sent troops to protect the lives and property of the British in Shanghai."
Amery added that the government had no intention of interfering in China's civil wars, saying that Britain's policy was "conciliatory."

WATCH FOR WINDS, SAYS FORECASTER

record for February by a wide margin. Numerous years have seen warmer February days—as a matter of cold fact, a year ago Thursday Atlanta went through a sunny day whose highest mark fell but few degrees below that registered Thursday. The mean averages were in 1926 and 1927, respectively, 47.2 and 48 degrees. So all those inspired debaters who claimed Thursday set a record, missed their guess.
And spring hasn't slid into town for the year, either. Fastidious Freddie, who took advantage of cut prices and glaucoma onto a new overcoat, may get a chance to spring it on the ladies and knock 'em over for a "good." For confirmation, one is referred to the weather report for February, 1899.

"Then It Happened."
In that year the good folk of Atlanta, as many will recall, were casting suggestive glances at prospective gardens, and spring was in the air as early as February 5. Some of the kids were already going barefooted and many a miscreant actually played hooky. The temperature was almost identical with that experienced Thursday. Cupid began to get in a few sly digs at unbarricaded hearts. All nature was grand—
And then it happened. Like a wet towel on a bathroom floor, it came. Down out of the north, cool breezes began to blow. The bottom fell out of the thermometer and crashed like a ton of brick over Atlanta. Fruit trees that had begun to burst forth in colorful raincoat shivered beneath the blast and died. Live stock sought sheltered nooks and clung together in common misery.
That condition prevailed until the 15th, when relief arrived and the thermometer gradually soared. And with the advent of March, spring, fickle vampire, brazenly skipped over the south—below her smile upon a desolate country.

March Normally Cold.
"March is normally quite cold in this district," Mr. von Herrmann declared. "If we have an average March we may expect several cold periods—that will do damage to the peach crop."
"Cereal crops have already suffered materially," he said. "With such high temperatures so early in the year, wheat, oats and rye grow to be too succulent, become tender and are susceptible to the slightest cold weather."

Taken all in all, "you can't never tell," as the fellow says. "T'may stay warm and then again 't'mayent." If one is inclined to string along with Old Man Average, one had best h: overcoat and scarf handy—for month of March is, to quote Mr. Herrmann, "a pretty cold month. Now go ahead with the argumen-

HEFLIN ATTACKS REED CANDIDACY

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the dry goods store of M. M. Russ, 778 Marietta street, early Thursday night, and damaged stock and equipment to an extent of approximately $20,000 before firemen were able to extinguish it, according to Mrs. M. M. Russ, proprietor-and owner.

Reports from the fire department say that the flames had gained considerable headway before firemen arrived. At a late hour Thursday night no cause for the blaze had been found. The loss was only partly covered by insurance, Mrs. Russ said.

A CITIZEN WHEREVER WE SERVE

CITIZENS PROTEST SCHOOL ABOLITION

When the advisory committee appointed to supervise school expenditures for this year meets this afternoon to consider the revised budget of the board of education it also will have before it a strong protest signed by more than 500 leading white men and women, protesting proposed closing of six of the eight negro night schools in the interest of economy.

The paper outlines the advantages of these night schools and sets out that in addition to reducing illiteracy in the city and state, they help eliminate inefficiency and crime and are invaluable educational assets. It further cites that 3,000 negro students, many of them actually grown-ups who are trying to learn and educate themselves, will be deprived of means of securing even a nominal education. Spokesmen for signers of the petition declare that in the proposed changes in the school system and general curtailment of expenses, the abolition of these negro schools will work the greatest hardship. It is claimed that while other changes will crowd conditions, they will not deprive students of seats, whereas discontinuance of these schools will deprive about 3,000 negro students of any means of education.

Cost Is Small Item.
The petition also sets out that the cost of operation is a paltry sum in comparison with the actual good the schools accomplish.

The committee today is expected to pass on the budget, which contemplates abolition of the night schools in the administration of the $2,795,000 which the school department will receive this year.

It also will demand, according to reliable reports, that the board of education take steps immediately to prepare an audit of 1926 accounts in order that the committee will have before it a statistical review of last year's financial activities as a basis for suggesting economies for operation this year.

Text of Petition.
The undersigned civic and religious groups and individuals of the city of Atlanta respectfully petition your body in behalf of the continuance of the six negro night schools which it has been proposed to abolish in the interest of economy. Our reasons for this request are as follows:

"1.—The eight negro night schools now conducted are doing an invaluable service to more than 4,000 of the city's most needy people—adults and young people with little or no education and with no opportunity other than these schools for acquiring one. The proposed discontinuance of six of these schools will cut off the only educational hope of a large group of these people.

"The fact that attendance upon the night schools is voluntary sufficiently attests the earnestness of the 4,000 students enrolled, and the value they place on this opportunity. The further fact that most of them are employed during the day makes the more notable and commendable their efforts to overcome the handicap of illiteracy and fit themselves for greater usefulness. We submit that a program of retrenchment, however, necessary, should not be made to bear most heavily upon the least advantaged and most needy group in the whole community.

"2.—Not only the welfare of those attending these schools, but the public welfare also, is deeply involved. Illiteracy is always a social menace, conducing to inefficiency, mendacity and crime. The illiterate population of Atlanta is being recruited constantly by migration from the rural districts. The public welfare demands that no effort be spared to fit these unfortunate multitudes for efficiency, self-support and good citizenship. Atlanta has been proud, and rightly so, of the fact that it has been doing more to abolish illiteracy than all the rest of the state together. To scrap a large part of this humane and public-spirited program would be a backward step that we believe the city cannot afford to take.

"The character of the training given further indicates its social value. It deals not alone with books, but in no small measure also with the most practical requirements of useful living. A large place is given to domestic service, home nursing, dress making, tailoring, brick laying, carpentry, etc.—training which fits those receiving it for better service and greater economic competence. Cut off this training and the effect will be felt speedily and permanently by hundreds of Atlanta employers.

"4.—The saving that would be effected by the proposed change, we have reason to believe, would be relatively very small. As best we can learn, the salaries of the 43 principals and teachers to be discontinued aggregate less than $18,000 a year. This item is doubtless by far the larger proportion of the expense. We believe that the relatively small amount involved could be saved in some way that would be far less unfortunate in its effects.

"We sincerely hope, therefore, that your committee will find some means of retaining these schools."

State Song Chosen.

YOUNG PEOPLE OPEN SECOND CONFERENCE

The Young People's interdenominational conference for central and southwestern sections of Atlanta will open tonight with a banquet at the chamber of commerce at 6 o'clock, according to announcement from the Georgia Sunday School association, which is sponsoring the conference.

The meetings will be held Friday night and Saturday afternoon and evening at the First Christian church, at Trinity avenue and Pryor street, instead of at the Central Presbyterian church, as was first announced. Mildred Finch will act as toastmaster at the banquet tonight, and Paul McGee will preside at the meetings, at 7:45 tonight, and at 3 and 7:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and evening.

The theme of the conference will be "Right Relationships," carrying on the purpose and treatment of the subject as handled last week-end in a similar conference of the DeKalb and north-east Atlanta sections. Discussions and reports on opinions will include the following topics: "Right Relationships With the Church," led by R. D. Webb; "Right Relationships With the Home," Professor Hugh H. Harris, leader; "Right Relationships With Civic Affairs," Rev. E. B. Quick, leader, and "Right Relationships With the Opposite Sex," Dr. C. Irwin Ennis, leader for boys, and Mrs. Floyd Field, leader for girls. Dr. Carter Helm Jones will close the conference with an address on "Right Relationships With God."

DEADLOCK LOOMS IN COAL MEETING

Miami, Fla., February 17.—(AP)—Close of the third day of negotiations between miners and operators of the unionized central bituminous field has not revealed a bridge across the chasm of diverse proposals for a new wage scale agreement.

Several operators agreed that chances for a settlement by the Miami conference were remote and some ventured the opinion that the negotiations were deadlocked without hope of reaching a common ground. Others said there was no way to determine what progress has been made. For the most part the mine conferees offered no comment except to indicate that, with the convention instructions not to accept a reduction in wages, they cannot meet the operators' competitive wage scale proposal with any sort of compromise.

The problem of drafting an agreement, argued in open meeting before the joint wage scale conference for two days, now rests in the hands of a subcommittee composed of two miners and two operators from each state in the central field, in addition to the three executive officers of the United Mine Workers of America and the officers of the joint conference. Its meetings are executive and the first session today was announced as having made no progress beyond the discussion of wage proposals placed before it by the joint conference yesterday.

Made-in-America Opera Presented At Metropolitan

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, February 17.—"The King's Henchman," the made-in-America opera, but done in Ye Olde English with a British setting, had its world premiere before a fashionable and distinguished audience at the Metropolitan opera house tonight.

Fifteen native American singers were in the large cast but of the three leading voices only one, Lawrence Tibbett, of California, was a home product. Florence Easton, born in Great Britain, and Edward Johnson, a Canadian, sang the leading soprano and tenor roles.

Tonight's audience seemed to enjoy the opening. The Metropolitan was packed to the limit with all available space occupied.

MANY CITIES PLAN MOTORCADES FOR BANKHEAD FETE

Charlotte, N. C., February 17.—(AP)—Motorcades from at least six cities are expected to convey a large number of delegates to the joint convention of the Bankhead National Highway association and the United States Good Roads association, to be held at Savannah from June 6 to 11. J. A. Rountree, of Birmingham, director general of the United States association, said here today.

Rountree was in Charlotte for a conference with Colonel T. L. Kirkpatrick, president of the Bankhead association. Rountree announced that motorcades were expected from Charlotte, Chattanooga, Columbia, Charleston, Miami and Birmingham. The governors of Alabama, Georgia, Virginia, South Carolina, Mississippi, Kentucky, Kansas and Montana already have accepted invitations, Rountree said.

Indian Mound Relics Given To Oglethorpe

Cartersville, Ga., February 17.—(Special).—Oglethorpe university museum will share in the finds made near her in the excavations of the Indian mounds on the Tumlin farm, three miles from Cartersville. Dr. Warren K. Moorehead, director of explorations, announced today.

Dr. Moorehead, ethnologist from Andover academy, Andover, Mass., who is making his third trip here to explore the mounds, stated that three skeletons were discovered today. The bones were in almost perfect state of preservation, it was stated.

Beads, pottery and other earthenware that showed skill in making, were also found with the skeletons.

Dr. Moorehead has been here a week and announces that among his "finds" in one of the graves was an article of textile material which apparently had been woven.

The mounds on the Tumlin farm are of mysterious origin. It has been said that the Indians 100 years ago stated they were not built by that race. Many of the skeletons are found in graves entombed with hewn stones, unlike the present-day burial vaults.

Dr. S. W. McCallie, Dr. Thorne Jacobs and Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Jacobs, of Atlanta, visited the excavation work today.

Dr. Thorne Jacobs said the addition of the Tumlin mound relics would be a valuable collection for the Oglethorpe museum.

Negro Nurse Saves Child by Attacking Unmasked Burglars

Chattanooga, Tenn., February 17.—(AP)—Told by two unmasked burglars that they would kidnap her year-old charge, neighbors today were recounting the success of Lucy Edwards, negro nurse, in putting to flight the marauders under a shower of blows from a fireplace pot.

The burglars were discovered by the nurse last night as they were searching rooms in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Frierson, where she is employed. Galvanized into action a minute later when they threatened to take the baby, the girl seized a poker and began striking one of the men, while the other continued the search. Turning to the telephone, the girl also tried to alarm police and the burglars fled.

Mr. Frierson is the son of the former solicitor general of the United States.

Hold Customs Court.

Chief Justice W. B. Howell, of New York, of the United States customs court, will hold court in Atlanta on February 23, according to announcement Thursday by V. O. THE NEW BANKING LAW.

The national banking system of this country will be materially strengthened when the provisions of the enacted Pepper-McFadden bill become effective.

The Federal Reserve system will also become more useful as a standardizing institution. The perpetual charter extension provision will relieve the apprehension that has been felt, especially at times when, for political reasons, the system has been under severe fire. The 20-year charters have only eight years to run, and more than a year ago it was developed that an organized effort would very probably be made to fight renewals.

No feature of the measure which has just passed congress is of more importance, or more heartening and reassuring to the people generally, than that providing for the continuous life of the reserve banks.

The bill makes sweeping changes in many respects, some of the provisions arousing bitter antagonisms. The fact, however, that all such provisions had the approval of men trained in banking, and of long and outstanding services in the federal treasury department, gave sufficient assurances to those less familiar with the technique of banking—so much so that the opposition in congress gradually dwindled to negligible proportions.

The provision giving national banks authority to establish chain banks in states that permit, under their own banking laws, the state banks to operate such branches is undeniably sound.

That national banks may make five-year instead of one-year real estate loans will be generally helpful in promoting development. This provision, however, came in for more than passing criticism through the claim that it would encourage the piling up of slow or frozen securities. Financial experts who have carefully studied this question see it in a different light, especially in view of the enlarged cooperative functions of the federal reserve system.

On the whole the bill is sound and safe, and will work an economic advantage to business and industry, and do much toward the stimulation of agricultural development.

ALONG THE RIGHT LINES.

The balmy spring weather during the past few days has advanced farm preparations generally—and especially in central and south Georgia—to such a place that their tangible forecast can be made of the year's activities.

In a nutshell, farmers are turning to a balanced program as never before.

There is more interest in stocking farms with small herds of dairy cows, with pure bred hogs and chickens than ever before.

There will be less cotton planted in Georgia than in 1926 by probably 10 per cent. Some estimates claim the acreage reduction will reach 15 per cent.

More counties are becoming interested in the extension work than ever before.

More boys' and girls' clubs are being formed than ever before.

On the whole the agricultural situation in Georgia, as it may be foreseen for 1927 at this time, is better than at a similar date in recent years.

The signs—so pronounced with an early spring—are more indicative of correct farming this year than ever before, and are therefore both healthy and heartening.

The most important feature of all these plans is to first provide for the food and feed crops necessary for the year, from harvest to harvest.

This necessarily calls for more attention to hogs and chickens. And the way to raise both prosperously is to have a small dairy herd, ship the cream, and use the skimmed milk for conversion into meat.

Georgia has made commendable progress in balanced production.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Monarchists And the Pope.

There is really nothing astonishing in the fact that the pope has put the Action Française, chief organ of the French monarchists, on the Index. Years ago when Von Blowitz, correspondent of the London Times, was talking to Leo XIII, and the conversation drifted to the monarchist movement in France, the great pope suddenly jumped from his chair and exclaimed: "No, Monsieur, the church will never again be tied up to that corpse." If we look at the actions of the church in a detailed manner, they often look incomprehensible, but when her two thousand-year history is taken into account, the rhythm of a definite program becomes clearer. The holy see combats or favors nationalism according to the circumstances. Nationalism, as in Ireland and Poland, represents in general certain sentiments which are favorable to the church, but still the vatican anti-nationalist spirit comes out more or less into conflict. For the simple reason that to the vatican the nation is only a province. By approving M. Briand's peace policy, the vatican moves a step nearer to the League of Nations, where the papacy would like to exercise the role of supreme arbiter.

School advantages should not be restricted to either race. It is unnecessary. The schools, with full opportunities to all, can be operated within the appropriation of real wastes and overlappings are eliminated. It is unnecessary to cut the heart out of the system, or to close a single one of the schools.

There are approximately 4,000 negroes, young and old, who take advantage of the night schools. It makes them more useful in the trades and as domestics. It lifts the veil of illiteracy—which is always menacing. They have no other opportunities. If these are withdrawn as proposed the small saving cannot possibly be recompensed.

The fine spirit of racial relationship existing in Atlanta has been created by fairness and justice. Nothing can disturb that relationship more, or lower the morale of the negroes as a class, than this wholly unnecessary and equally as unwise discrimination.

Several hundred leading white citizens of Atlanta, men and women, petitioned the citizens' committee Thursday to keep these negro night schools open. The reasons stated are sound and unanswerable.

GREAT AND WORTHY HONOR.

The election of B. Mifflin Hood, of Atlanta, to the presidency of the American Ceramic society is an honor worthy bestowed.

Mr. Hood was instrumental in bringing the convention of that organization to this city in 1925. At the time he was chosen as one of the vice presidents many tributes were paid him by delegates from other states for his great service in the development of ceramic industries in Georgia, and especially for the conspicuous and helpful part he played in getting a ceramic school established as a part of the Georgia Tech curriculum.

The splendid and inspiring faith in Atlanta shown by Mr. Hood years ago when he looked over the south generally seeking a place to live, and a business to develop, has been repeatedly cited. In the development of a great brick and tile and other clay products business he has demonstrated rare executive ability as well as a thorough technical knowledge of clay-product manufacturing and ceramic engineering.

No state in the union is richer in ceramic opportunities than Georgia, and while keenly active in developing his own business to a national basis Mr. Hood's unselfish services in attracting ceramic manufacturers to the study of Georgia clays stand out as a service for which the state owes him a debt of gratitude.

The Constitution congratulates this great national organization on the election of this Atlanta to its presidency.

Those who frequent revues in New York city for that run-down feeling are 6,093 less, according to automobile fatalities in that city during 1926.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

Witnessing the Inauguration of President Jefferson Davis in 1861.

Sixty-six years ago my father went to Montgomery, Ala., to witness and report the inauguration of President Jefferson Davis in 1861. He was then only 10 years of age, but an inquiring and news-sensitized youngster, he elected to take me along with him to "look and listen."

Father was an editorial writer and a political lieutenant of Senator Johnson, and at the request of Senator Johnson and other Alabama leaders, he went to Montgomery to report back to them the state of sentiment and proceedings in that center of the secession movement.

The journey in that day from Knoxville to Montgomery, via rail through Cleveland, Dalton and Atlanta, was slow and tiresome compared with the luxurious rapid transit of today, and when we reached the Alabama state capital we were tired enough to rapidly welcome our bed in the old Exchange hotel, and wait there that the great leaders of the new nation in the forming were quartered and the place to gather the real news and rifeing rumors of the situation.

Who Am I?

Signor Luigi Pirandello, who writes so persuasively of the curious states of consciousness which result from an inability to establish identity, should find plenty of food for thought in the newspapers these days. Europe is having an epidemic of disappearances, lost memories, and other manifestations of the fact that life is not so simple as it seems. Mrs. Agatha Christie, an English writer of mystery stories, whose inventive talent in her work almost amounts to genius, started it all. She thought she was another person, a friend, under whose name she lived. Each found a case of his own at the present time. It shows the mind an extremely delicate organism. Two theories may be advanced for the prevalence of these cases, one of which is that newspaper publicity through its suggestion produce imitation.

Extract.

History books in use in the public schools of Russia have again been revised. Previous editions had contained too much praise for the bourgeoisie class and its influence on world culture. The new copies however, carry away the complete refutation of the communists and are quite in the vogue of the day in Moscow. In the chapter treating of the Russian empire we read the following questions and answers: "What did the Romans do for the other peoples of the old continent? Answer: They civilized them. Question: How did they civilize them? Answer: By teaching them to fight amongst each other."

Reactions.

In the humblest things of life, where generally lies the greatest beauty, it is also often possible to find some valuable lessons, even in race psychology. For instance we happened to enter a railway carriage at Poissy the other day, just at the moment when one passenger picked up a little book from the floor. The book proved to be the private diary and intimate thoughts of a woman of different men which I had just picked up.

The Frenchman pulled out his glasses, became deeply interested and presently started to copy addresses. An American in the corner leaned over and hearing of the long list of acquaintances, quietly said: "Some lady!" and went on puffing his cigar. And a tall, bearded Russian just sat back and roared with laughter, slapping his knees till the carriage shook.

Protests Water Rate As Injurious to City

Editor Constitution: Let me commend J. Frank Beck for his valuable letter against the gouge water rate that has been raised in our city, also as a sufferer to condemn such practice as city council has assumed using the water plant as a taxing agency to multiply burdens upon our citizens without their consent.

I can as an old citizen remember the time when we were promised water at exact cost as a municipally owned plant.

It is only a few of our citizens that are made to feel this raise, apartment house owners more than any; their lease contracts being based on the old law of water rates, any raise makes the owners pay and not the tenants.

Hotels and manufacturing plants are hard hit, but in some way they can add the extra cost of a few cents to expense sheets and fix prices accordingly.

The system of making the water plant a taxing machine is radically wrong. It robs only a few of the city that all should have the privilege of helping to pay. I do not believe it is right to rob Peter to pay Paul.

It will end in further increases; promises to reduce have never amounted to any thing with politicians and never will.

University "Parent Day"—Its Religious Aspect

(From the Christian Index.)

Georgians will recall with reassuring memory the Parents' day program at the University of Georgia last year. It will be repeated again this year. April 15-18. Last year the program was but one day in length. This year the committee is providing for two days and a night. More time is needed in which to bring the many vital viewpoints in so great a matter as arousing a proper concern on the part of parents and home churches in the welfare of the young man and the young woman away at college. And the committee goes further in this invitation last year by providing this year for addresses by the heads of our denominational colleges in Georgia. This seems to indicate the recognition of the universality of this problem of drawing into closer fellowship the respective groups of friends of education and religion. In other words, it appears that the committee in charge of the Parents' day at the University of Georgia believes that the life of the church and every other college in the state has a common task in seeking after a closer cooperation on the part of parents, home pastors, and friends of these young people who are away at college. There is something very fine in this invitation of the university to its neighbor institutions to join in this movement.

The conference began Monday afternoon, April 18, with addresses by at least three denominational college leaders in Georgia. Chancellor Shellenbarger of the University of Georgia, and other local faculty members and students. That evening there was a reception for the visitors—parents and pastors—and friends of the college. It is hoped to bring these visitors into direct contact with the student life of the university.

Witnessing the Inauguration of President Jefferson Davis in 1861.

Sixty-six years ago my father went to Montgomery, Ala., to witness and report the inauguration of President Jefferson Davis in 1861. He was then only 10 years of age, but an inquiring and news-sensitized youngster, he elected to take me along with him to "look and listen."

All Seemed Eager for War.

Very naturally the great throngs in the hotels and streets were filled with excitement and intense enthusiasm. As far as my youthful memory bears record the least all seemed to be typical "southern fire-eaters" and eager for war. From hundreds of mouths were heard curses of the "d-d old republic" and "d-d Yankee." I know I got indelible ink on a "Yankee" was a critter with a blue-belly and horns and hoofs like those on pictures of the devil.

My father had been a soldier in the war with Mexico, had fought under Taylor at Buena Vista and Resaca de la Palma, and had followed Scott in the battle of Contreras, Churubusco and Chapultepec through to Mexico City. He loved the union and the old flag, and prayerfully hoped there would be no war between the north and the south. Though a slave owner, he never had any devotion to the institution of slavery and would have welcomed its just and peaceful abolition. Washington, Jefferson and Lee would have done.

But he was southern to the core of his heart and determined, if the worst came to pass, that he would stand by the south at any cost of blood or life. That he made me understand.

A Memorable Medley.

The lobbies and corridors of the Exchange and other hotels were crowded with the most notable public men of the south and men of large affairs in every state below the Potomac and Ohio rivers. They were all men of southern statesmanship and social civility. The parlors were the reception salons of many scores of those stately and even venerable senators who gave nobility to the conduct in the higher circles of the old south. With them were hundreds of the beautiful and fascinating daughters of their homes, being educated by the "flaming youths" of the era looking forward to swords and epaulettes.

Mr. Davis was the cynosure of all eyes. He was the center of the subject of tumultuous cheers whenever he was visible to the public eye. When taken into his parlor by my father I can recall the timid awe with which I looked up at the face of the elegant and dignified, but kindly-eyed, "president."

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

ANSWERED BY

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

Pittston, Pa.

Is there any reference in the Bible as to whether a true marriage exists between man and woman, and if so, where can it be found? Do you think there are many true marriages today, in view of the numerous divorces and proceedings which fill our courts?

Ezekiel speaks of his wife as the light of his eyes. Our Lord said that "from the beginning of the creation male and female (God) made them." But the cause a man shall leave his father and mother and shall cleave to his wife and the two shall become one flesh. What would our Lord have let to the man put asunder? (St. Luke x, 7-9.)

St. Paul in his letter to the Ephesians refers to the wedding state in ideal terms, which showed that he esteemed it a sacred and holy thing. His descriptions can be applied to countless modern couples who are not vocal because they are blessed in one another.

It is the galled jade that winsces. No man who is living in conventional marriage are biased by unfortunate marital experiments. Others treat the marriage bond lightly and contribute to the misery which more often than not follows the constant grinding of our American divorce mills. These by no means confer the freedom and the bliss which are attributed to the divorcee. The experience of society in the large, it sustains the opinion of Christ as essential for the protection of the home, the strength of the nation and the welfare of the race.

Will you please tell me which are the people who are most likely to be deceived by a friend who strongly recommends them to me. Although I am 25 years old, I have not much opportunity to read fiction, as I work daily in a factory as an engineer.

Begin with "The Three Musketeers," and if you relish an audacious story which expresses in dramatic fashion the life of France and Frenchmen at its height of brilliancy as well as corruption you will read on till you have made Alexandre Dumas' works your own.

Thackeray confessed his indebtedness to the part of parents, home pastors, and friends of these young people who are away at college. There is something very fine in this invitation of the university to its neighbor institutions to join in this movement.

LET'S NOT QUARREL.

Why so dogmatic, asks Frances A. B., who goes on with a long letter which she would like to see in print. I have room for only the main points:

"It has been frankly admitted that medical science is not an exact science but is constantly in experiment and what is true and heralded today as a revelation in disordered tomorrow as a mistaken theory or quietly ignored."

Medical science is as exact as any other science. Can you name any other living science which is not open to the same criticisms you make against medical science? Or any art or profession?

"I quote from 'How to Eat—A Cure for Nerves,' by Dr. Thomas Clark Hinkle, of which Dr. Alfred McCann says: 'It should be eaten into marble in letters of sulphuric acid and set before the gates of every American city.'"

"This is the quotation: 'It is perfectly absurd to say as some physicians still continue to say, that no poisonous matter is ever absorbed in the intestinal tract. Give a child something that causes intestinal indigestion and see how quickly a rise in temperature. This fever is a direct result of the poisons absorbed in the intestines. In the case of a nervous adult, however, this poison does not as often result in fever, but in a horrible mental depression and a complete inability to perform any sort of work.'"

If Alfred McCann is entitled to be called a doctor, then I should be called queen of the May. What McCann may think or say about the matter is of no consequence. What Dr. Hinkle says, if you quote him correctly, is his mind, veritable claptrap. In the first place, he fails to divulge the identity of the physicians he says believe that no poisonous matter is absorbed in the intestinal tract. I doubt that any physician believes that. In the next place, he fails to identify the substance which will cause "intestinal indigestion" and what may be the cause of it. Of course it is just as well to leave that in the air in an argument of this kind. Next, he dogmatically asserts that this is a leading cause of the "nervousness" of the "nervous" which has been caused by "something" is a direct result of the poisons absorbed in the intestines. Then he dishes out some unadvised, hot dogma, this time about the "horrible mental depression" of the nervous adult—whatever that may mean—and the "complete inability to perform any work." This final leap after a time, the truth of what he says is not without working, but haven't sufficient wit to accomplish the feat. It offers them a way of escape, a fumble to hide in, and some particularly unattractive work is to be avoided.

"Another axiom out of experience: 'A man's either a fool or a doctor at 40.' Very good. 'I'm a doctor at forty-odd. What are you?'"

"Individuals differ and it behooves each intelligent individual to study his own reactions to bodily experience and experiments—common sense being the eternal guide—and using every God-given servant of humanity: Reason, understanding and will."

To be sure, individuals differ a lot, but all the rest of it is questionable. Very few individuals are capable of studying their own reactions and bodily experiences and experiments. If they attempt it they are likely to learn, after a time, the truth of the axiom you just cited, about a man being either a fool or a doctor at 40. Common sense more often misleads than it enlightens. The truth of the matter is that the majority of men are not intelligent enough to study their own reactions to bodily experience and experiments—common sense being the eternal guide—and using every God-given servant of humanity: Reason, understanding and will."

If they attempt it they are likely to learn, after a time, the truth of the axiom you just cited, about a man being either a fool or a doctor at 40. Common sense more often misleads than it enlightens. The truth of the matter is that the majority of men are not intelligent enough to study their own reactions to bodily experience and experiments—common sense being the eternal guide—and using every God-given servant of humanity: Reason, understanding and will."

To be sure, individuals differ a lot, but all the rest of it is questionable. Very few individuals are capable of studying their own reactions and bodily experiences and experiments. If they attempt it they are likely to learn, after a time, the truth of the axiom you just cited, about a man being either a fool or a doctor at 40. Common sense more often misleads than it enlightens. The truth of the matter is that the majority of men are not intelligent enough to study their own reactions to bodily experience and experiments—common sense being the eternal guide—and using every God-given servant of humanity: Reason, understanding and will."

Time and Tide

BY JOHN HUBERT GREUSEL

THE GHOST IS PUT TO WORK.

About all our modern thinkers are doing is to adopt old ideas to new uses. Argus, the old gentleman with 100 eyes, the magic carpet of Baghdad that carried folks miles in an instant. Mercury springing lightly to remote places wings on his feet, Aladdin's ring which made wishes real. Shakespeare's Puck who says "I'll put a gildie round the earth in 40 minutes"—are now made real in that wonderful latest toy of science, the overseas telephone, by means of which New York calls up London and in an instant the voice carries afar, though storms are raging on the wild sea.

Old ideas, new uses; so runs the world away.

But the Greeks made the first real start by their curious interest in a precious yellow gum found on the shores of the distant Baltic after storms stir the bottom. No one knew what the mysterious substance was, and some of the wise Greeks finally decided that the small round globes were the hardened tears of sea birds weeping for the death of a dear one.

Tom Moore, the romantic Irish bard, tells about it in his "Fire Worshipers"—

"Around thee shall glisten the loveliest amber." That ever the sorrowing

TO PUSH LUCKIE WIDENING PLANS

Plans for widening and repaving of Luckie street from Bartow to North avenue will be pushed and Fulton county commissioners will be asked to appropriate funds to supplement those already allocated by the city, Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, announced Thursday.

Despite the fact that property owners have taken an adverse stand on a proposal to remove street car tracks from Luckie street and place them on Techwood drive, there will be no let up in the fight to carry out the widening and repaving project.

County commissioners seemed to want the tracks removed, and commissioners Mr. York took the lead in the removal plan, and it has been abandoned definitely, but the other part of the plan will be zealously pushed and a large delegation of citizens will appear in behalf of the project at the next meeting of the commissioners.

If the tracks had been removed, Luckie would have been a strictly motor vehicle street leading from the heart of Atlanta to the northern section of the county. Supporters of the proposal to widen and repave declare that if the street is made 50 feet wide it will do much towards eliminating a serious traffic problem in that section.

The garden club movement was started in Floyd county by members of the Seven Hills Garden club when it was organized about two years ago. Twenty-four Rome women are members of the club.

Witness' Death Will Not Halt Williams Cases

Although Clyde Manning, negro convict, chief witness in murder proceedings brought against Marvin and Huland Williams, of Jasper county, is dead, the state will not drop the case against the accused men but will prosecute vigorously with other witnesses in the case according to an announcement made Thursday by Joe B. Duke, solicitor general of the Ocmulgee circuit.

The Williams boys were indicted in Jasper county on charge of complicity in the killing of several negroes who worked on the Williams' farm. John Williams, owner of the farm, was convicted several years ago for complicity in the killing of 11 negroes on his farm which was known as the "Jasper county murder farm." Williams is now serving a life sentence in the state prison.

Solicitor Joe Duke said the cases against the Williams boys were not called recently because of his illness but said they would be prosecuted.

The Williams boys were reported to be believed the Williams boys knew of the recent death of Manning before they decided to surrender.

MOREHOUSE OBSERVES 60TH ANNIVERSARY

The 60th anniversary of the founding of Morehouse college, this city, will be celebrated today with a series of meetings, at which a number of well-known speakers will appear. At 9:30 o'clock this morning there will be a gathering of the alumni with a number of speakers. At 2:30 o'clock a formal meeting will be held which will be addressed by Dr. George R. Hovey, of New York, secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission society; Dr. W. T. B. Williams, field agent of the Slater homes; Dr. Carter Helm Jones, of Atlanta, and others. At 7:30 tonight the celebration will conclude with a concert by the glee club and orchestra.

Morehouse college, which has come to be one of the most important negro colleges in America, was founded in 1867 through the efforts of the Rev. William J. White, a negro Baptist preacher, and editor, who did notable service among his people in Georgia in the years following the emancipation.

The institution, first devoted to the training of preachers, has added a department of teacher training and other departments from time to time. It is now a fully accredited college with a plant valued at $800,000, a faculty of 30 teachers and a student body numbering 300 of college grade and 140 high school pupils.

The burglar fled through the door, turning down a nearby alley. Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.

(In response to numerous requests, Mr. Work will write on contract for the next few days instead of auction bridge. During that time, his daily auction bridge pointer will be omitted, but will be resumed later.)

In future articles the different contracts and various bonuses will be given so that the readers can make the choice in determining how to play contract; but, because of the details it is necessary to explain more about the variation in principle between auction bridge and contract.

As has been stated, in contract only the amount of the bid is scored in the trick column (below the line); nevertheless, the taking of additional tricks is a most important factor because such surplus tricks are scored above the line, not at the actual trick value, but at a much higher figure—usually 50 per trick. As a result of this provision, a player, unless forced to do so, will not bid more than enough to make his game, unless he feels able to try for a slam and the big slam bonus. Should a player (having a score) need two-odd for a game, and feel confident of winning five-odd, he would bid up to five if necessary to secure the contract; but he would prefer to bid only two and be able to count his three extra tricks at 50 each. From a love score he would not bid voluntarily above the three-odd or five-odd need for game, unless he felt able to bid six or seven-odd for a slam.

In the foreign game, 50 points are sometimes allowed for making contract; but in this country, while there are some who play with the foreign allowance for the contract, it is unusual to find it included.

In contract, just as in bridge, a double doubles all values; a redouble quadruples them. Being "vulnerable," a part of contract which will be explained later, produces more doubling than other articles on contract tomorrow.

Smallpox Found, Jail Quarantined, Visitors Barred

From now on this thing of getting into jail is going to be more difficult. And the path that leads between iron gates to freedom also will be trod by fewer of Atlanta's denizens—which even the balance and is a sort of poetic justice.

Smallpox has disturbed the usual routine of the local criminal element. Three inmates of the Fulton tower Thursday were reported stricken with the malady, leading to orders from the sheriff that they be segregated in a hospital ward and that the county prison be quarantined.

If you're a bold, bad yegg, a bo-haird lander, or indulge your criminal urges in running over people with automobiles, make no mistake. Prisoners will be admitted as usual by special dispensation, but visitors will be barred and incoming and outgoing will be restricted as much as possible.

Among prisoners reported to have contracted smallpox was Jack Lance, who has been held since last summer in the murder of Bert Donaldson, investigator in the solicitor general's office.

'WEATHER PROPHET' FOUND NEAR ROME GETS HOME AT ZOO

Zooland at Grant park will be host to a new inmate of animal institution, it was learned Thursday, when A. J. and E. E. Redd captured a groundhog on the road between Rome and Cartersville, and offered it to the Grant park zoo.

Tech High Wins City Title---Tech Trounces Oglethorpe

Commercial Swamped In Rough Contest, 42 to 21, by Smithies

Tech High Basketeers Make It Two in Row to Take Three-Game Series for Championship—Versatile Attack Is Large Factor in Victory.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Accompanied by plenty of fouls, fast play, and much cheering, the Tech High Smithies won their second city basketball title by giving Commercial a 42 to 21 drubbing at the Athletic club Thursday afternoon. The game was the second of a scheduled series of three. The Smithies won the first game last Tuesday, by nosing out the Typists 27 to 26.

Thursday afternoon both teams were out for blood, and came near getting it. There was a total of 30 fouls, including two technicals, called during the course of regular play. The game was all the way from sluggish to "hot" and "cold" and was accompanied by a decidedly decided thing.

Each team used a different style of passing attack. Baser is the only man on the Commercial team who can make long shots with any accuracy. In 12 shots he made only one for the Tech High team is composed of five men who are all good shots. Their attack consisted of dribbling down past mid-court, followed by a short pass or two and then a shot at the basket. Heavy Hammond, the winner's center, was best at this and accumulated a total of 12 points, all of them made from field goals.

Pay Terrell, one of the Smithies' forwards, was runner-up to Hammond in this matter of getting points together, and his total was 10, four field goals and two foul shots. Terrell is at his best in diving into a mad scramble under the basket after a shot has been made and then showing it in for two points.

Baser was kept in the dark in the matter of scoring, but put up one of the best free game plays that prep league has witnessed this season. He dribbled to all parts of the court, usually accompanied by either Joe Stearns or Joe Chandler, Smithie guards, trying to find an opening for a go-ahead. Towards the last of the game, Baser tried several long shots but failed to make any of them good. His total pointage was two.

The Smithie guards, Joe Chandler and Stearns, came through with their usual fine exhibition of guarding as it should be done. Joe Stearns rang up three field goals for a total of six points, while Joe Chandler got three points out of a field goal and a foul.

A big crowd was on hand to see the two teams do battle and it completely filled the club stands, making one of the biggest prep basketball assemblages this year.

Shots from the field that were good for two points mounted up to 19 for Tech High. The Smithies had 11 tries for one point shots and made four of them good. Commercial was able to secure only five field goals, and got 11 foul shots from 24 tries. Most did some good foul shooting in the second half, making five out of six tries.

Lineup and Summary.

TECH FROSH BEAT AGGIES IN HARD TILT

With the lead changing three times in the last minute of play Bill Fincher's Tech rats barely held out Red Barron's Monroe A. and M. college team in one of the fastest and most furious basketball games played on the Tech court. With the Aggie boys on the verge of a 40-35 score and only one minute to play Adams seized the ball and looped the basket to put the frosh into the lead.

But not for long, as on the tipoff one of the Monroe forwards grabbed the ball and looped a long shot from the center of the court. With only 15 seconds to go and the ball in possession of Monroe under her own goal, Coker intercepted a pass and dropped the ball into the basket just as the whistle blew.

Red Barron's team took the frosh by surprise on a whirlwind start and tallied 12 points before the rats were able to register.

About the middle of the first period the rats began a comeback and the half ended 23-22 in the Aggies' favor. The second period started with another Aggie rush, which soon netted them a nine-point lead. Again the rats showed that they could come from the rear and by one minute play had reduced the Aggies lead to one point, where began the climax of the game resulting in a change of lead three times in the last minute. Practically all of Monroe's tallies came from shots behind the foul line. The rats managed to get in some close shots but most came from long tries. The game was rough, several times almost causing fistic encounters.

James A. and M. forward, was star of the game. His playing put him all over the court and his long accurate shots to the basket bolstered Monroe's score materially. Coker and Nichols were the outstanding men on the rat team. Heeks, rat star, was unable to play in the game, which hampered the freshmen not a little.

Arlington Five Defeats Edison

Arlington, Ga., February 17.—Playing in their best form of the season, with both their defense and offense working perfectly, the Arlington Hi basketeers showed under the crack Edison Hi quint on the local court recently, the final score being 17 to 9.

Most of the shots at the basket by the Edison boys were made from the center of the court, they being unable to penetrate the excellent defense of the locals. The exceptionally good playing of Hattaway, Davis and Newberry for Arlington and of Sheppard for the visitors were outstanding features.

Paschal Signs.

Charlotte, N. C., February 17.—(AP) Ben Paschal, New York American league outfielder, today announced here that he had signed his 1927 contract and mailed it to Manager Miller Huggins. He said he was "well pleased" with his terms.

Coach Tweedy is drilling the boys hard for a game with the Dawson Hi quint in Dawson next Saturday night.

The Arlington boys will also enter the southwest Georgia tournament in Tifton next week, meeting the Meigs team as their first opponents.

BLANK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Maybe Pyle Is Pleased.

The latest announcement from the camp of Pay and Tote Pyle, the miracle man of professional athletics, is to the effect that Baldwin H. Baldwin, son of the notorious "Lucky" Baldwin of California, is to blame for difficulties which have caused him to abandon the management of Suzanne Lenglen, temperamental tennis star of the land of lilies.

We have difficulty in refraining from wondering if the wise old Pyle is not using this excuse to cover a disposition to admit that professional tennis is as great a failure as professional football.

Mr. Pyle modestly admits that he made a net profit of something like $50,000 on the recent tour of Suzanne and her companions in the United States and it does not seem like the great "Cash and Carry" to relinquish such a proposition just because Suzanne had become enamored of a young man with a kind disposition and a heap of "argent."

It is probably true that Suzanne followed the advice of her very close friend, Mr. Baldwin, but Mr. Pyle has been noted for his persuasive powers and if he thought enough of Suzanne's contract it is entirely reasonable that he would make some effort to replace the young gentleman as adviser, if not as a lover.

The action looks to us like another argument sustaining the belief of many that professional tennis will not pay the big dividends that even the great Pyle believed were possible when he started the famous invasion of America.

JUNIOR HIGH LOOP LEADERS WIN CONTESTS

The two league leaders in the Junior High basketball loop won again Thursday to keep their slate clean. Decatur doubled its score on the Bass Ave. 32 to 15, and Hoke Smith fought out an extra period affair with Joe Brown, winning 17 to 12.

The best game of the afternoon in the loop was played by Hoke Smith and Joe Brown on the auditorium court. At the end of the regular playing time the score was knotted, 12 and 12. It took an extra period in which Hoke Smith ran up five points to his opponents' none.

All during the game the two teams were within one or two points of each other. Braunstein and Johnson were the stars for the winning side. It was these two lads that carried the colors over the top in the final play off.

At the end of the half the best of the boys played a jam up game of ball, but Betsell was a bit off his f on Gibson and Turner were the best for the boys.

Decatur started their fire works early in the battle with the Bass outfit. At the end of the half they were leading, 22 to 9. In the second period the defense of the losing five strengthened and held the fast-stepping Decatur boys in check.

Decatur has one of the best squads in the league this season. They can pass and shoot as good as any bunch of high school players. They are a team with a chance at a long shot, and their team work is so good that they work the ball into the hole for crisp shots.

Steele, Rothwell and Richards make a sweet combination on the outside, while Barnes and Flint did some splendid defensive work.

Howard Waldrip and Will Gunn showed up best for the Bass outfit. It seems as if the boys are doing well. Howard (4) and Gunn (2) were the stars. Steele (11) and Rothwell (10) were the best for the losing side.

G. M. A. WINS FIRST BATTLE IN TOURNEY

Auburn, Ala., February 17.—(AP)—One Mississippi and three Georgia basketball teams remained in the running for the cotton states championship by winning initial games today.

Georgia Military academy, defending champions, overcame unexpected opposition by Amistad, Ala., and won the right to enter the second day's round by a 26-to-17 victory. Mott and Phillips led the scoring for the Georgians.

Darlington High school, of Rome, Ga., ran up a score of 13 points on Columbia (Tenn.) Military academy before the caudets counted. Rome won 32 to 18. Kadel and Houston starred for Darlington while Elkins led the Columbia attack.

The Tupelo Military academy team, Mississippi's lone entry in the classic, outclassed the Springville (Ala.) High school aggregation by a 32 to 13 count. Holliday and Duncan stood out in the Tupelo lineup while Jones starred for Springville.

The third Georgia quintet to emerge victorious from its initial contest was Vienna High school. The Georgians eliminated Red Level (Ala.) High school by a score of 40 to 22. B. Walters, Campbell and Horn starred for Vienna.

Montgomery Bell, of Nashville, one of the two Tennessee entrants, stayed in the running by winning from DeKalb county, Alabama, high school, 41 to 30. The Nashville quint was impressive in its debut today, and will give other entries a hard fight.

Castles Heights Military academy, the other entrant from the anti-Darwin state, had little trouble in disposing of Tallapoosa county, Alabama, high school, by a score of 32 to 20.

The best game of the entire day's play came at the close when Malone High school, of Florida, encountered the cagers of Millford, Alabama. The end of the regular playing time found the count knotted at 32-32.

After playing two extra five minute periods, the Floridians emerged victorious, 37 to 32.

Two strong games are scheduled for Friday when G. M. A. opens the day's play with Malone High quint from Florida. Montgomery Bell and Tupelo are expected to engage in quite a heated battle, beginning at 4:30 Friday afternoon.

The other two games for today are: Vienna High vs. Darlington, 7:30 o'clock; Castles Heights vs. Lanett, 8:30 o'clock.

"I am given to understand by my eastern representative, W. H. Pickens, that M. Lenglen and M. Baldwin have decided to map out her future professional program together. I am perfectly willing to step out of the picture."

The tennis star's profit in her American tour was said to have totaled $100,000. Pyle said his net return on the venture was about half that sum.

Suzanne is scheduled to sail for France Saturday from New York.

'Goat' Contest Draws Interest

Palm Beach, Fla., February 17.—(AP)—Sportsmen among the social elite in Palm Beach are waging heavily on their favorite in the Walter Hagen-Gene Sarazen golf match at Coral Gables Sunday, with many fashionable folk of the resort planning to be in attendance.

Even money bets are being posted, according to gossip in the colony, although Sarazen in several instances was given the edge by reason of his consistent match play this winter. The amounts are reported to be high in the thousands.

Club To Stage Shoot Saturday

Members of the Peachtree Gun club will take part in another added bird shoot in their weekly affair, to be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Palm Beach country club.

Silver sherbet cups will be offered to entrants. The shoot will be conducted on a basis of six entrants to a team, high gun of each team getting a cup.

Hay Selected.

Chicago, February 17.—(AP)—C. W. Hay, of Frankfort, Ky., who for several years was an official of Kentucky race tracks, has been selected general manager of the new Washington Park track at Homewood. He succeeds Thomas E. Bourke. He served as presiding steward at Washington Park last season.

THE FIERY FURNACE.

Leland salted his quotation with irony, lest it fail to go down. But, irony or not, he got it before the jury.

And the prickle continued, confusing the heart action. Of a profoundly generous disposition, the dark woman wanted immensely to trust him, to leave everything, with a superb gesture, in his keeping. But she had too much at stake. "How should I ever face my husband without a single secure fact to go on? It's been impossible to reconcile him even as— She had been used to managing her house admirably as well as to running ideals and symbols, her broader visions, and her inner lights. Her mind was almost entirely under cultivation, and a surprising area grew common sense. "Why, for what would I be upsetting our whole scheme of life? Everything we've been counting on, building on! Even our home!" She actually made a motion of withdrawal. "O, no, this can't go on! I've changed my mind. I will have to make other arrangements."

He said, quite motionless and in an even tone, "In the end I think you'll stick."

Intent and startled, the cherry-black eyes shone at him, aware of a challenge.

If you do I ought to be trembling. I ought to be prostrate before the knees of the gods for fear of your some day regretting it. But you're not going to regret it. When life gets to be a trap we have to— he curved the strength of his long fingers eloquently—"break the trap. To remold it nearer to the heart's desire."

He knew that with a good woman your shot ought to bring down four things—defiance of the world, loyalty, conscience, conceit.

"I don't offer you peace. No safety. My pockets are empty of material advantage. If the gods come when I ask you to keep your word to me and you do it the world won't call you sensible. There's nothing but struggle where I'd take you. Except eternal vigilance. Oh, and danger, of course, and uncertainty, and the last ditch." He lifted his head but unflinching eyes. "And if we fools don't clear our ditch our trouble'll be laughed at."

For he thought it best thus to risk bringing in Peoria and get rid of it.

"I promise you only one thing—fulfillment. That you'll do what you wish to do. That you'll be what you want to be—keep your own faith—shake hands with your soul." Her responsible breast rose impressively. "You'll be able to say, 'I didn't fail. I gave myself. That's all.'"

The jury was perhaps no further from weeping than when he first addressed it. But at least it inclined to weeping, spiritually speaking, on his breast. And whenever had the jury's husband taken half so much trouble to please his fancy? Serve him right!

"One more—ord. Understand here and now that you have done nothing irrevocable. For you it is not too late to turn back."

It was his last card. And it sufficed. The mountain top he had her on Peoria couldn't reach at all. She said, "I'm ashamed that you should have had to remind me of what's right. I shan't change again. I give you my word."

He did not thank her. He fixed her with an intent, brief stare, took out his check book, wrote a check, and passed it to her. It was for ten thousand dollars.

The hot, slow blush of the brunette thickened in her face; she dropped the check and pushed back her chair. But Leland neither spoke nor stirred, and his immobility kept her seated.

Then he said, "Just to have it in your keeping. I might die, for instance. It'd be a comfort, if a taxi knocked me silly, to know I hadn't talked just wind to you."

"But you don't even know when—"

"Come, don't be mean about money! You're giving up I don't dare think how many times that amount for your faith in me. How about my good faith?"

With downcast eyes she lifted the check, doubtfully folding it. There came a play of shadow round her lips like the twitch in the mouth of a hungry dog.

"A man in my situation is at so great a disadvantage—he asks so much and has so little to give. Anxious he watched her open her purse. "He wouldn't be able to walk straight on the earth without knowing that he'd thrown in at least all he had."

His voice practically moved her fingers till they closed the purse over the check and snapped it.

"Well, climb down, Daniel!" said he to himself, when she was gone. "Call it a day!"

She had eventually bethought herself to remark, "Please remember me with the utmost kindness and admiration to Miss Jayne." And now she was gone by the same road—THE CASINO—THIS WAY OUT.

He stood looking along that road after her as he had looked after Dulcie. And now, as then, his mind leaped back to the idea which had come to him after he read in his script about George destroying the option and the compact with his own hand. He was once more too engrossed to move. Presently, waiting for his horse to be brought up, he began looking through his note book.

And the waiter who counted on broadcasting anecdotes of his celebrities congratulated himself that this time he should have quite a lot of little things to tell. And the boy who brought the horse, and who was badly but not hopelessly in love with Miss Jayne, seeing no reason why he shoudn't marry her when he became a star—he was willing to take small parts at first—once more decided that he would wait till next time before asking Leland to put him in his picture.

And Leland, pausing at an item in the note book in a hand not his, read carefully:

"Thin, slender, middle height, nice hazel eyes, brown hair, curly, wears dark dresses, with white ruffled things, a lady—"

"Miss Marsh," Leland said to himself. "Cornelia Marsh—that's it."

And as he wrote, "THE CASINO—THIS WAY OUT," he told himself again, "The very thing!"

People familiar with such dress rehearsals as precede a theatrical first night know something of the strain accompanying night work in pictures.

Night work is an emergency call upon the energies; it means the digging of a ditch, but which must keep alive and free within its labor the glinting of the wings of dreams. Each person working in that picture that night carries his ball and chain, attached to the foot of his fire. But every chain and every fiery moves through the fingers of the director; there, in his hand, all things become alive or dead as he can or cannot bring them to the goal seen by him alone.

Either way he has to fling you, your director, into a burning, fiery furnace. Long before you enter you breathe its fumes, feel the scorching of its blasts. All day you see ahead of you that blazing pit; you move toward it through a world from which you are a little separated, a little set apart from these cold, daily paths which the mere remainder of humanity continues with a certain quaintness to pursue. Along with you the whole company, the whole studio, abandons itself to the coming torture of a proud, voluptuous shudder, like that of martyrs entering the arena.

Mammoth Bridge Luncheon Planned By City Federation

Plans for the mammoth bridge luncheon to be given by the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs were perfected at a luncheon in Rich's tea room, when Mrs. Arthur Hazzard, chairman of ways and means for the federation, called the various chairmen together for reports. The luncheon will be given February 25 at 1 o'clock at the Joseph Habersham chapter house. Bridge will be played from 2 to 5 o'clock and those who do not play bridge may come just for the luncheon or may plan other games.

This will be the one money-making enterprise of the federation for the club year. Many reservations have already been made. Besides the elaborate luncheon valuable prizes have been contributed and many women are taking advantage of the opportunity to entertain their friends. Besides attractive prizes for each table, others ranging in value from $2 to $10 will be awarded. Each member of the executive board has assumed responsibility for one table and each club will arrange for one or more.

Reservations must be made with Mrs. Arthur Hazzard, Henslock 1950-W, not later than Thursday noon. Tickets may be secured from her or from the club representative. Members selling tickets are requested to write their names on back of tickets and mark them "paid."

My Beauty Aids for You

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I offer you my premier beauty aids. They have cost me 40 years of searching, 35 trips to France, and at least $100,000. Today, at every toilet counter, they are placed at your command. They brought me a glorious career as a beauty on the stage, and that career continues. Women who see me daily envy my youthful bloom.

My major help is my White Youth Clay. Not an ordinary clay, but the final result of 20 years of scientific study. It is white, refined and dainty. It combines with two days' cream of the other best helps known for beauty and youth and complexion.

I have seen my White Youth Clay bring to countless girls, inside 30 minutes new beauty which a married woman older than I seem to drop ten years. No lover of youth and beauty, when she learns the results, can neglect it.

My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads or blemishes. It brings new blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights. It combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. I never knew a product which did so much so quickly.

Any girl or woman can gain new beauty or new youth from one application of my White Youth Clay. Often the results will seem unbelievable. My example shows how those results continue and increase. SUPREME COURT REVERSES DECISION IN HIXON SUIT

The Georgia supreme court Thursday reversed the trial court's decision in declaring a nonsuit in the case of Mrs. Addie Hixon, a Houston county widow, against the Georgia, Southern and Florida Railway company. The case should have been heard by a jury, the higher court held.

Mrs. Hixon has filed a petition in the Houston superior court asking that the release claim for damages she had signed immediately following her husband's fatal accident, be declared void. She further claimed that statements made her by the railroad's claim agent were false, and that she signed the contract while in distraction at her husband's death. Under the contract she was paid $50 and burial expenses, amounting in all to $135.

Mrs. Hixon met his death at a railway crossing at Kathleen, Ga., in February, 1925.

The supreme court held it was for a jury to decide whether Hixon or the railroad was to blame for the accident, and whether Mrs. Hixon fully understood the contract at the time she signed it.

Thursday's express brought them! As fresh, as tempting, as alluring silk frocks as one would want to see. But why shouldn't they be? Haven't they only just left the hands of their creators in New York? Weren't they fashioned in accordance with the very latest styles of spring? And aren't they made of good silks in styles that lead everyone to believe they're much more expensive? They are! And because they're so wholly irresistible, they'll all be sold almost as soon as they're unpacked. See if they aren't!

Slams Salaams

By Louise Dooly

MY text today is taken from the statement of the Dean of Women at Cornell university that "If principles of decency and modesty are instilled in girls, the length of their skirts will take care of itself."

THE health supervisor of a public school recommended that a certain child seek dental treatment, lest his health and his brain functioning, already affected by "bad teeth," be permanently impaired. When the mother was notified—"That's all foolishness," she said to the teacher, "but you may take him to the dentist if you want to. I won't."

Now ignorance explains that, although it does not excuse it. But how explain this: That numberless men and women, of sufficient position in the world to have their opinions quoted in the newspapers, blame the recent shocking series of suicides among college and high school students to the influence of an alleged ungodliness of viewpoint among school and college faculties?

THE astonishing thing about this is its implication that boys and girls go to high school and college with beliefs and principles unformed; that they are obliged to wait until they are of high school or college age to have a professor, as a tangent to a lesson on history or philosophy, inculcate them to an ideal of conduct and a workable reason for living up to it; that to establish in them suddenly a light to live by; a faith to sustain them whatever comes.

NOBODY denies the power of teachers to influence their pupils for good or bad. But the youth who has grown up in an atmosphere of high principle and positive belief; an atmosphere in which such things as conduct regulated by high principle, and a habit of thought formed on high motive are the breath of life, is liable when he does go to high school or college to be as safely protected against the sophistries and scepticisms now popular with the lesser minds in the intellectual world, as if he could back up his beliefs with scientific argument. And by science here I mean theology.

THE most indifferent people to the moral welfare of their children are not necessarily the ignorant. Probably the most dangerous degree of indifference lies with that vast mass of the educated and the prosperous whose philosophy is "to take life as they find it." Having no settled convictions of their own, they expose their mentally and emotionally defenseless children to whatever wind of thought that blows.

The youthful suicides were without doubt overdeveloped emotionally. True education balances the training of emotion and intellect.

The beginning of the job belongs at home. Nor does it take the higher education in the parents to accomplish it; not a degree in theology.

But it does take a strong sense of the responsibility of parenthood; it needs sacrifice of time and pleasure, and intense sincerity of purpose. It substitutes care and thought for indifference.

Else the educated parent places himself in the same attitude towards his children as the mother of the child with bad teeth. In effect, the educated parent who is indifferent, says to his children's teachers, "You may look after their welfare. I have something more important to do."

Why Not Both Ways?

EVEN the most intense of the intelligent—those who contend most vigorously that genius must have no fetters; that it must have full freedom to be as smug as its inspiration prompts—would scarcely call President Angell, of Yale, a narrow backbone. And yet it was he who declared in his welcoming address before the conference on drama held at the university at New Haven last week that, if it is acknowledged to be within the civic rights of a community to control its sewage for the protection of the physical health of the inhabitants, he could not see why the right of the community should be denied to protect the mental health of its people from the contamination of pollution in drama and literature.

IN the current crusade against the obscene on the stage in New York, one of the most frequent and most specious of the arguments of the other side is that the sex plays which are the occasion of most of the objections are beneficial in that they point the evils of the conditions they expose.

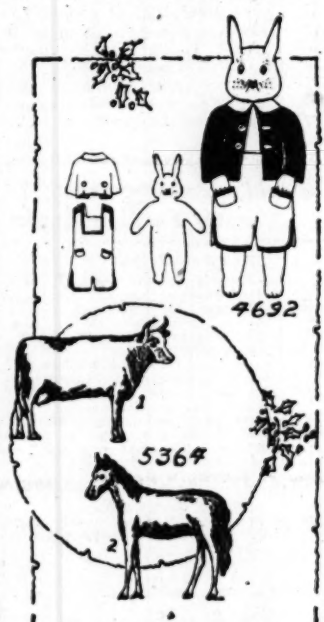

Well, there used to be a theory that these children are liable to have whooping cough and scarlet fever and measles any way, and that it goes harder on adults than on children, it was the expedient thing to put the children in the way of the contagion, so that they should have these diseases and be done with them.

That theory now, of course, is archaic. We know these days that just because a child has had the so-called diseases of childhood it does not necessarily mean that he has done with their effects; and that, moreover, it is not imperative that he have them at all if he be protected against them.

A similar progress in the criticism of the drama has unfortunately yet to be awaited; a progress which will be complacent even though the world be denied the fruits of genius where they are plainly contaminated.

England gets along with a septic drama, and yet its playwrights, in spite of the suppressing influence of censorship on the spirit of genius, go on producing plays which frequently last longer even on the American stage than the untrammelled American-made drama in competition with it.

C., champions of the 1926 Georgia and South Carolina statewide cotton contests, will be guests in Atlanta Friday of the soil improvement committee, National Fertilizer association, and the Sears-Roebuck agricultural foundation. They will be presented on radio from WSB in a special cotton farmer program at 6:20 o'clock tonight, sponsored by these two organizations.

Mr. Cox, who won the five-acre cotton contest of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, produced 9.83 bales on five acres, at a cost of 6.1-4 cents per pound, a net profit of $71.25 per acre. Mr. Swearengen's record as South Carolina's champion was 10.92 bales on five acres. In addition to these two speakers, Hiram Doolittle, a Sears-Roebuck foundation radio character, will tell how his careful methods of crop culture, made him lose money on cotton in 1926.

WEISER TO SPEAK TO PERSONNEL BODY

Kendall Weiser will discuss the "Psychology of Handling Men" at the third of a series of studies in business psychology to be considered by members of Personnel Association of Atlanta at the regular monthly meeting tonight at the Peacock cafe. Following the address an informal round table discussion will be held, it was announced.

NEW STREET SIGNS FOR CENTER OF CITY

Re-marking of streets in downtown Atlanta was given impetus Thursday when the purchasing committee of city council bought 100 white way markers and 100 cross-street markers for use of the city planning commission in the work. R. W. Torres, engineer of the commission, said the new markers will be placed as soon as possible after they arrive and that others will be added as additional funds become available.

The commission has been working out a plan to re-mark the streets as far as possible, thus eliminating confusion, and the additional equipment will aid materially in this program.

Included among other purchases of the committee were an X-ray unit for the colored division of Grady hospital, one 2 1/2 ton truck, three water meters for the water department, 50 catch basin castings and 50 ratings and frames for sewer repairs and two cars of 6-inch and two cars of 8-inch vitrified pipe for the sewer department, and 250 sections of seats for the auditorium.

Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, chairman of the committee, presided. Total purchases aggregated $15,000.

TRUITT NOW HEADS FAIRS ASSOCIATION

S. D. Truitt, of Sparta, Ga., was elected president of the Association of Georgia Fairs Thursday at the Kimball house, at the completion of a two-day convention of fair representatives from all parts of the state. Other officers elected were: Charles Wilkins, of Savannah, vice president; C. B. McCullar, of Milledgeville, vice president; and E. Ross Jordan, secretary.

Members of the new board of directors are H. C. Smith, L. M. Rossignol, Charles Wilkins, S. D. Truitt, E. R. Jordan, J. Oscar Mills and C. B. McCullar, Columbus, Ga., was selected as the meeting place for the 1928 convention, it was announced. Resolutions were adopted Thursday praising Atlanta and several other cities for supporting the farming industry in Georgia, and pledged the co-operation and aid of the fair association in all matters pertaining to agriculture.

Police Contribute To Aid Poor Family; Not So Hard-Boiled

Coins chucked in a silver badged police cap at headquarters Thursday. Hard-boiled officers of the evening watch, in line for roll call, listened to Captains Butler and Gordon. "A sick widow . . . her 14-year-old son has a broken leg . . . ejected from their home . . . nothing to eat." A sergeant coughed, the big fellow next to him blew his nose; they dug into blue jeans, and swung off on the beat again.

Today Mrs. Lena Moore, of 164 Carroll street, is thanking the force. So is 14-year-old Johnnie, he of the broken leg. And 11-year-old Ernest who brought home the money, proud as anything. They all got together Thursday night and had a party, most people would say it was only supper . . . but most people don't know what it is to be hungry. Plenty to eat was a real party for them. Then, too, they felt pretty good about having a roof over their heads for a little while longer, anyhow.

Legion Will Hear Unknown Soldier Search Reports

Results of the public school children's aid in the quest of all Atlanta's "unknown soldiers" will be reported by John M. Slaton, Jr., chairman of the American Legion honor roll committee, at the regular meeting of Atlanta Post No. 1 in the Henry Grady hotel at 12:30 o'clock today.

All Atlanta schools last week participated in the legion's search for the names of all world war veterans who have not already been listed on permanent records. The work was assumed by the legion at the request of Mayor I. N. Hagsdale and is to be carried on as one of the major activities of the local post throughout this year.

The luncheon will be featured by a program of entertainment arranged by P. E. Moise, luncheon chairman, including dance numbers by Miss Thelma Chalmers, interpretative songs by Mrs. Celeste Conant Hudson, vocal solos by John Curry and a banjo duet by Dick Hancock and Ed Fennell.

GORDON WILL SING AT BIG BETHEL CONCERT

Taylor Gordon, said to be one of the foremost negro singers in the United States, will give a concert Monday night at Big Bethel church, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Atlanta university, it was announced Thursday afternoon.

Gordon will be accompanied at the piano by J. Rosmond Johnson. The program will consist largely of negro spirituals.

WOMAN RELEASEDIN METTER CASE

Metter, Ga., February 17.—(AP)—Released upon her own recognizance, it is doubtful if Mrs. W. M. Davis, held in jail since last August in connection with the killing of Pat Suddeth and the fatal wounding of Alex Larrisey, will ever be tried, according to admissions made here by court officials following the acquittal yesterday afternoon of Joseph Holloway, who stood trial for murder.

Holloway was acquitted by a jury yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock after consideration for three hours. At his first trial, the Holloway case ended in a mistrial.

Mr. Davis had been denied bond until Holloway was acquitted. Solicitor A. S. Bradley, in a statement newspapermen, said the acquittal of Holloway put an entirely new complexion upon the case and he, therefore, agreed with the court upon her release.

Mrs. Davis claims to be the actual slayer of Suddeth, declaring she shot when Suddeth and Larrisey attempted to break into her home after she had ordered them away. Both were drinking, she said.

Larrisey, who was first tried, charged the slaying to Holloway, who was a caller at the Davis home, he said, and T. P. Mosely, who was tried, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the case.

Mrs. Davis was ordered to report to the next term of court next August. Meanwhile, Solicitor Bradley stated, some decision would be made in disposition as to her case.

RAWLINGS AND TANNERBEGIN PRISON TERMS

Milledgeville, Ga., February 17.—(Special)—The transfer of Charles G. Rawlings, of Sandersville, and J. Tanner, Johnson county farmer, from the Wrightsville jail to the state prison here to begin life sentences, ends another chapter in one of the state's most sensational cases. Rawlings, a prominent citizen of Sandersville, and Tanner, farm overseer, were convicted in Jackson county superior court in the summer of 1925 in connection with the shooting to death of Gus A. Tarbutton, extensive planter, on February 21, 1925. Tanner was charged with having fired the shot that killed Tarbutton, and Rawlings was charged with being accessory before the fact.

Both men were given sentences for life in the penitentiary and the transfer of the prisoners was made after a long legal fight, after long and stubborn trials and after new trial appeals to the trial and higher courts were denied.

Tarbutton was killed, it was claimed, when a gun in the hands of Tanner, accidentally discharged when he stumbled. The son of Tarbutton, it was claimed, was in the room when the shooting occurred, and he was walking behind Tanner when the shot was fired.

The contention of the state was that Tarbutton was killed in order that large amounts of insurance carried by him and made payable to the joint firm of Tarbutton and Rawlings might be collected. Tanner claimed the shot was accidental. Rawlings is 68 years old and Tarbutton was 52.

Tarbutton and Rawlings were related and had large farming interests in Johnson county.
